

Exploration of new low-cost first-generation high entropy alloys using FactSage

Jean-Philippe Harvey, Polytechnique Montréal

We propose here new low-cost first-generation High Entropy Alloy (HEA) candidates obtained from an original chemical phase-space exploration strategy using new thermodynamic criteria linked to the driving force for precipitation, the temperature range of solidification and the single phase starting temperature.